68th ANNUAL CONFERENCE

MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN, CISCE

Dear esteemed colleagues, heads of schools, delegates, and members of ASISC,

It gives me immense pleasure to extend my warm greetings to all participants of the 68th ASISC Annual Conference, which will be held in Chandigarh from November 19 - 21, 2025. This annual gathering will be a momentous occasion for reflection, renewal, and the reaffirmation of our shared commitment to excellence in education.

DR. G. IMMANUEL
CHAIRMAN, CISCE

The chosen theme, "Building Stronger Schools Together," is both timely and significant. It reminds us that the true strength of our schools lies in collaboration - when educators, parents, students, and communities unite with a shared vision. Together, we nurture an environment that not only imparts knowledge but also shapes character, resilience and values for life.

May this conference serve as a vibrant platform for exchanging ideas, sharing innovations, and inspiring one another to create inclusive and future-ready learning spaces. The spirit of progress in the city of Chandigarh inspires us to foster holistic education and empowers every student to thrive. My sincerest blessings for a conference filled with enlightenment, camaraderie, and enduring impact.

I convey my heartfelt wishes for fruitful deliberations, meaningful connections, and renewed inspiration as you continue your noble mission of shaping young minds. Together, let us strengthen the foundations of our schools and illuminate the path toward a brighter tomorrow.

BUILDING STRONGER SCHOOLS TOGETHER

68th ANNUAL CONFERENCE

MESSAGE FROM THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE & SECRETARY, CISCE

Dear Educators, ASISC Leaders, and Delegates,

It is a privilege to extend my greetings as we gather together for the 68th Annual ASISC Conference, under the theme "Building Stronger Schools Together." The challenges and opportunities in education today call for collaboration, innovation, and a shared commitment to excellence. As Helen Keller aptly said, "Alone we can do so little; together we can do so much." Strong schools are the result of collective effort—leaders, teachers, students, and communities working hand in hand to create environments where every learner can thrive.

DR. JOSEPH.EMMANUEL
CHIEF EXECUTIVE & SECRETARY, CISCE

As educators and leaders, we bear the responsibility of inspiring, guiding, and empowering our school communities. Schools that are resilient, inclusive, and future-ready are built not only through policies and infrastructure but by igniting curiosity, creativity, and a love for learning in every student. As William Butler Yeats observed, "Education is not the filling of a pail, but the lighting of a fire." Building stronger schools requires that we nurture every child with care, support, and shared responsibility—it truly takes a whole village to raise a child.

This conference provides an invaluable platform to exchange insights, explore innovative strategies, and reinforce our commitment to collective growth. Through collaboration among educators, leaders, and communities, we can empower students, inspire teachers, and strengthen the foundations of our schools, ensuring they thrive as centers of excellence, creativity, and holistic development.

I extend my heartfelt gratitude to ASISC for hosting this important gathering and creating a space where we, as educators and leaders, can collaborate towards a brighter future. By learning from one another, sharing best practices, and embracing innovation, we can truly build stronger schools that can contribute meaningfully to our communities and our nation.

Let us remember that "Great leaders don't set out to be leaders ... they set out to make a difference. It's never about the role—it's always about the goal." May this conference inspire us to lead with vision, collaborate with dedication, and continue building stronger schools together—schools that empower students, uplift educators, and shape a brighter future for generations to come.

BUILDING STRONGER SCHOOLS TOGETHER

68th ANNUAL CONFERENCE

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT, ASISC

Education is the noblest of human endeavours, and schools are the sanctuaries where young minds are shaped, nurtured, and inspired. As a Principal, I firmly believe that schools become stronger not in isolation but through collaboration, exchange, and shared vision.

“We rise by lifting each other, and the future of education depends on our collective strength and unity.”

MRS. U. A. SUNDARI

PRESIDENT ASISC &

Regional Secretary, A.P. & Telangana Region

In today's world, education cannot remain confined to one classroom or campus. We are entrusted with preparing children for a global society, embracing technology while safeguarding human values, encouraging creativity while upholding discipline, and cultivating empathy alongside excellence. These responsibilities call for us to stand together as a unified force.

Our vision is to build a fraternity of institutions bound by a common mission: the empowerment of every child. Collaboration among schools rejuvenates teachers through shared ideas, broadens students' horizons through shared learning, and strengthens communities with unity of purpose. The child of today, who witnesses this unity, will grow into the citizen of tomorrow who values dialogue over division and service over self.

Collaboration among schools opens new avenues for resource optimisation as well. Schools can jointly invest in training modules, wellness programs, or shared infrastructure for specific activities. This reduces costs while maximising benefits. Through collective outreach initiatives such as literacy drives, environmental campaigns, or social service programs, schools can extend their influence beyond their campuses and contribute meaningfully to society. There is also a spiritual dimension to this vision. Education is both cultivation of intellect, and nurturing of character. Together, we would have the sacred responsibility of upholding values that transcend boundaries of geography and culture.

As Principals, teachers, parents, and stakeholders, we must recognise that collaboration does not weaken individuality. It ensures that we do not allow challenges to overwhelm us or opportunities to pass us by. May this endeavour of bringing schools together ignite a movement of shared wisdom and shared dreams. Let us walk hand in hand, carrying forward the timeless truth that education is not the privilege of a few, but the birth right of all.

68th ANNUAL CONFERENCE

MESSAGE FROM THE SECRETARY-TREASURER, ASISC

In today's rapidly changing world, schools serve not only as centers for academic achievement but also as anchors of community, character, and innovation. To truly build stronger schools, we must embrace the power of collective action, bringing together educators, families, students, and community partners under a shared vision of progress.

FR. JOSEPH SARPIRASADAM, SVD
SECRETARY-TREASURER, ASISC

Teachers remain the foundation of any successful school. Their commitment, creativity, and expertise drive meaningful learning, but their potential is maximized when school leadership invests in professional growth and collaboration. Families, too, are essential members of the educational ecosystem. When parents and caregivers are involved—through open communication, volunteering, and active participation—students find encouragement both at home and at school.

Equally vital are the students themselves: building stronger schools means listening to student voices, encouraging leadership, and supporting student-led initiatives. Our communities amplify this effort by offering mentorship, real-world learning experiences, and partnership programs—from local businesses to civic organizations—that connect academic learning to life beyond the classroom.

A truly strong school is safe and inclusive, nurturing diversity, supporting mental health, and fostering respect. Let us recognize that quality education is built not by a single group, but by communities united in purpose, working together for the advancement of every child. Only through genuine partnership can we ensure that our schools remain vibrant places of inspiration and growth.

I extend a very warm welcome to all the delegates and visitors to the 68th Annual Conference of ASISC to be held at AKM Resorts, Chandigarh. My best wishes to the North India Region for the success of the event.

God bless our Association and all its members!
